

We have recently had the pleasure of being accepted by Local Buy as an approved supplier. Local Buy is a leader in the provision of procurement and probity services to the whole of government.

Since 2013, Quintessential Consulting Pty Ltd has been helping business leaders make more informed, confident, and effective decisions in a rapidly changing world. We create organisational resilience by applying contemporary methodologies such as Systems Thinking, Design Thinking and community-centred co-design to address their problem situations, and in the process we future proof workforces to the uncertainties and complexities that we face.

Patrick Albina, our Founder & Director, has worked across the globe in a range of complex multi-national projects, creating an eclectic network of diverse and trusted professionals to deliver services to our clients. With a desire to return the investment of his lived experiences and knowledge back into the business community, Patrick established the Quintessential team to empower people and their businesses by equipping them with the new skills that are required to deal with the uncertainty and rapid changes in our world. Patrick is also a sessional academic at the QUT Graduate School of Business, where he delivers coaching, facilitation and professional services to Government, Corporate Clients, and the MBA Program.

With a 25+ year foundation in the military, Defence, and Industry sectors, we have a proven track record in delivering strategic change, business growth and reform outcomes to Government, the Private sector, and small-medium business in building Sovereign Australian Capability, specialising in:

- Project Management
- Strategy & Risk
- Workforce Strategy
- Stakeholder Engagement
- Disaster Resilience
- Defence Readiness

More recently, we have delivered projects for Local (Regional and Shire) Councils, regional businesses, and Indigenous communities, involving economic development, skilling and education, disaster preparedness and crisis management, and business growth.

As a family business, we are committed to upholding family values in accordance with Quintessential's Guiding Principles and providing a working environment that is psychologically and culturally safe.

To discuss how Quintessential can help shape and grow your business contact us to get the conversation started.